Pastorz Corner

I was looking through the church calendar again this week. Not the local Glendive UMC calendar, but the 'official' wall calendar from the big United Methodist Church. This calendar lists all the lectionary readings for every Sunday and Holy day. (Feel free to read ahead) There is a place at the top of each two-page month that tells us what's ahead for the coming months and what to be planning for in our local churches. In addition to Sunday lectionary readings, this comprehensive church resource also identifies special offering days, like Peace with Justice Sunday (June 16), a national holiday, July 4th, and as importantly our liturgical seasons. FYI, we're in Easter and going into Kingdom tide after Pentecost on June 9).

I would be hard pressed to operate without access to a calendar. Although my husband thinks it's neat that I can recall a future date based on the date for a given Sunday. Sundays being my reference point, this makes sense. I need the reminders of what's ahead for my days and weeks and into next year. I bounce my church calendar up against my personal time, my Girl Scout Troop activities and my husband's schedule. And, before easy access to an I-Phone calendar app with alerts, a Franklin Planner was my go-to calendar for decades and I carried one everywhere.

Still, I don't consider myself tied to a calendar or a schedule. Sure, I have responsibilities and appointments I am responsible for. But in the final analysis, I try to remain flexible. I think this is how scriptures and Jesus intended us to be Psalm 90:12 Teach us to number our days, that we may gain a heart of wisdom.

Ecclesiastes 3:11 Yet God has made everything beautiful for its own time. He has planted eternity in the human heart, but even so, people cannot see the whole scope of God's work from beginning to end.

James 4:13-14 Now listen, you who say, Today or tomorrow we will go to such and such a town, stay there a year, conduct business, and make money. You do not know what tomorrow will bring. What is your life? You are a mist that appears for a little while and then vanishes.

Matthew 6:33 But seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.
